Acquisition of Shares in COMTEC Corporation by Our Subsidiary (DICS Holdings Corporation)

INTLOOP Inc. hereby announce that DICS Holdings Corporation (Head Office: Minato-ku, Tokyo; President and CEO: Mitsuo Tobe; hereinafter “DICS HD”), a consolidated subsidiary of our company, has decided to acquire shares (100% equity ratio) of COMTEC Corporation (Head Office: Adachi-ku, Tokyo; Representative Director: Teruhiko Naoi; hereinafter “COMTEC”).

1. Reason for Share Acquisition

Our group aims to become a “solution platform provider integrating cutting-edge technology and professional talent” by the fiscal year ending July 2030, as outlined in our mid-to-long-term management plan “INTLOOP ‘VISION2030’”.

In recent years, demand for DX (Digital Transformation) within companies has been increasing. However, according to “DX Trends 2025” *1, the proportion “engaging in DX company-wide based on a corporate-wide strategy” remains at just under 35% among Japanese companies’ DX initiatives. Against this backdrop, advancing the digitalization of society as a whole requires the urgent advancement of communication and IT infrastructure and the strengthening of the systems supporting it.

To achieve this goal and address societal challenges, DICS HD, a group company providing technology products and related services as an IT infrastructure solutions distributor, has decided to acquire all shares of COMTEC and make it a subsidiary in order to further strengthen its business competitiveness.

COMTEC is a communications infrastructure specialist, building on its foundation in telecommunications equipment and IT-related businesses. Its expertise spans cable laying for communication circuits, installation and maintenance of switching and terminal equipment, and network facility construction. In recent years, demand for construction work on communications and IT infrastructure has surged dramatically, driven by the expanding use of AI and the rapid growth in demand for cloud and data centers.

This acquisition will integrate the large-scale project capabilities of Nihon Digital Integrate Communication Service Corporation (hereinafter “Nihon DICS”), a subsidiary of DICS HD, with COMTEC’s agile construction capabilities. This will strengthen our structure to capture demand in growth areas such as data center construction and next-generation communication infrastructure projects. Furthermore, by combining Nihon DICS’s existing services with COMTEC’s customer base, we aim to accelerate new customer acquisition and the digital transformation (DX) of existing customers, thereby expanding our business.

By welcoming COMTEC into our group, we will strive to further enhance the corporate value of our group.
