2. Reason for revision

Net sales for all major segments of the Group—Takara Shuzo, Takara Shuzo International Group, and Takara Bio Group—are now expected to fall below the previous forecasts.

Operating income is projected to exceed prior forecasts for both Takara Shuzo and Takara Shuzo International Group.

However, for the Takara Bio Group, the decline in net sales is expected to have a significant impact, resulting in operating income falling below the previous forecasts.

Regarding extraordinary income and losses, extraordinary income increased by approximately ¥2.3 billion compared to the previous forecasts due to factors such as the sale of investment securities. On the other hand, the Takara Bio Group recorded an impairment loss of approximately ¥3.9 billion on its facilities, leading to an increase in extraordinary losses.

Furthermore, after a careful reassessment of the recoverability of deferred tax assets within the Takara Bio Group, approximately ¥400 million of deferred tax assets will be reversed. As a result, net income attributable to owners of the parent of the company is expected to fall below the previous forecasts.

In addition, today our consolidated subsidiary Takara Bio Inc. (Tokyo Stock Exchange Prime Market, security code number: 4974) also announced revisions of business results forecasts for the first half of the fiscal year ending March 31, 2026.

3. Full-year business results forecast for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2026

The Company is currently evaluating whether revisions of business results forecasts for the full fiscal year are necessary and considering the details of possible revisions. The Company will make an announcement in this regard when it announces its business results for the first half on November 11, 2025.

* The above-mentioned forecasts have been prepared based on the information available as of the date of announcement of this document and could differ from the business result figures scheduled to be announced on November 11, 2025.
