2. Reasons for determining FY2026 interim dividend

The Company's basic policy on the distribution of earnings is to maintain stable dividends while enhancing retained earnings to support proactive investments for future business development. Since FY2025, the Company has used the Dividend on Equity (DOE) ratio, based on consolidated shareholders' equity, as the standard for dividend distribution. For FY2026, the Company plans to provide dividends based on a DOE of approximately 5%.

From this standpoint, the Company has determined to pay 108.00 yen per share for the FY2026 interim dividend, which is consistent with its most recent forecast.
