1. Qualitative Information on Interim Financial Results

(1) Explanation of Operating Results

During the six months ended September 30, 2026, the global economy remained generally resilient, supported by robust capital investment demand, particularly in generative AI-related fields, despite persistently high resource prices resulting from the prolonged situation in the Middle East. However, growth varied among countries and regions due to differences in the extent to which technology-related demand spread across their economies and in energy procurement conditions. The outlook remained uncertain, also reflecting ongoing geopolitical risks.

In Japan, the economy continued on a moderate recovery trend, supported by improvements in employment and income conditions driven by continued wage increases, as well as investment demand related to labor-saving measures and digital transformation (DX), although inflation and high resource prices weighed on households and businesses.

In the electronics industry, in which the Group operates its principal businesses, demand for semiconductors and related electronic components for data centers expanded against a backdrop of accelerating AI-related investment. While demand for automotive and industrial equipment applications showed signs of recovery, the recovery in demand for consumer equipment remained sluggish, resulting in differing demand trends across applications. Under these circumstances, the Group's Electronic Components business recorded a year-on-year increase in net sales, reflecting contributions from newly consolidated subsidiaries and solid performance in automotive and industrial equipment applications.

The Electronic and Electrical Equipment business recorded a year-on-year increase in net sales, reflecting shipments of vacuum and scientific equipment ordered in prior fiscal years.

The Chemicals business also recorded a year-on-year increase in net sales, reflecting growth in sales of cosmetic ingredients as demand for cosmetics recovered.

As a result, consolidated net sales for the six months ended September 30, 2026 amounted to ¥113,026 million, an increase of 34.9% year on year. Consolidated gross profit amounted to ¥15,899 million, an increase of 30.0% year on year. Selling, general and administrative expenses amounted to ¥12,031 million, an increase of 21.8% year on year. Consequently, operating profit amounted to ¥3,868 million, an increase of 64.6% year on year; ordinary profit amounted to ¥3,619 million, an increase of 55.6% year on year; and profit attributable to owners of parent amounted to ¥2,739 million, an increase of 36.4% year on year.

Earnings per share, adjusted for the stock split, amounted to ¥48.49, an increase of ¥12.92 from the same period of the previous fiscal year.

Operating results by reportable segment were as follows.

Electronic Components Business

In the Electronic Components business, sales of semiconductors and LCD modules for automotive applications remained solid, while sales for industrial equipment applications increased as demand recovered. Sales of optical components, including optical components for high-speed communications, also performed well. In addition, the results of two newly consolidated subsidiaries contributed to performance.

As a result, net sales for the six months ended September 30, 2026 amounted to ¥92,449 million, an increase of 44.0% year on year. Segment profit amounted to ¥3,325 million, an increase of 161.1% year on year, reflecting higher profits associated with increased sales and foreign exchange effects, among other factors.

Electronic and Electrical Equipment Business

In the Electronic and Electrical Equipment business, customer inquiries increased significantly against a backdrop of active investment in the semiconductor, AI and data center markets. However, the contribution to net sales was limited because various types of manufacturing equipment have long lead times from order receipt to revenue recognition. Under these circumstances, sales of vacuum and scientific equipment increased due to shipments of orders received in prior fiscal years.

As a result, net sales for the six months ended September 30, 2026 amounted to ¥12,609 million, an increase of 5.6% year on year, while segment profit amounted to ¥800 million, a decrease of 25.5% year on year.

Chemical Business

In the Chemicals business, changes in operating conditions at oil companies' refining plants generated new demand for industrial chemicals. Meanwhile, higher raw material prices put pressure on profits, despite efforts to pass on cost increases through selling prices. Sales of cosmetic ingredients showed signs of recovery, supported by moderate market growth.

As a result, net sales for the six months ended September 30, 2026 amounted to ¥5,922 million, an increase of 3.8% year on year, while segment profit amounted to ¥301 million, a decrease of 11.4% year on year.

Other Businesses

Other Businesses comprise contracted logistics management services, solar power generation, contracted analysis, testing and evaluation services, and the development and operation of new businesses.

Net sales for the six months ended September 30, 2026 amounted to ¥2,241 million, an increase of 7.0% year on year. Segment loss amounted to ¥618 million, compared with a segment loss of ¥502 million in the same period of the previous fiscal year.

① Assets, Liabilities, and Net Assets

Current assets as of September 30, 2026 increased by ¥899 million, or 0.7%, from the end of the previous fiscal year to ¥127,968 million. This was mainly attributable to an increase of ¥791 million in merchandise and finished goods as inventory receipts progressed.

Non-current assets decreased by ¥1,986 million, or 5.3%, from the end of the previous fiscal year to ¥35,429 million. This was mainly attributable to a decrease of ¥1,031 million in goodwill due to amortization and foreign exchange effects.

Non-current liabilities decreased by ¥2,627 million, or 9.6%, from the end of the previous fiscal year to ¥24,666 million. This was mainly attributable to a decrease of ¥2,500 million in long-term borrowings as a result of repayments.

As a result, total liabilities as of September 30, 2026 decreased by ¥1,092 million, or 1.2%, from the end of the previous fiscal year to ¥93,558 million. Net assets increased by ¥5 million, or 0.0%, from the end of the previous fiscal year to ¥69,838 million. This was mainly attributable to an increase of ¥856 million in retained earnings, partly offset by a decrease of ¥827 million in the foreign currency translation adjustment.
